BONDS AND STOCKS.

WALL STREET, SUNDAY, Oct. 26, 1873. From the Tone of the market at its close jesterday, it is evident that a strong "bear" campaign was inaugurated and a determined effort made to produce another panic in the Stock Exchange. The depression attempted was for the moment sucsful, and stocks declined to a point which caused a feverish feeling; but there is really nothing in the situation that need excite apprehension. Half the trouble in Wall street emanates from a class of men whose chief business apparently is the circulation of mere rumor and the retailing of known falsehood; whose conversation is vague and mysterious, and whose vocabulary principally consists of dark hints about something which is to happen, accompanied by whispered suggestions to "go

THE EXPERIENCE OF THE STREET, however, bears out the remark that whenever tocks have been thus brought under the influence of these pernicious reports the reaction has been as sharp, if not as sudden, as the decline. Last week the objective point of the leaders in this species of warfare was Lake Shore, the price of hich they succeeded in pushing down nine per cent. This week we may possibly have New York Central as a feature, personal animosity against the leader of this line of stocks seeming just now to hesitate at no statement that can possibly cause a sign of weakness. There is a point, however, eyond which it is dangerous to urge the decline The stock market is too debilitated to successfully withstand undue pressure, and the prices of various stocks are sumciently low to attract investment. The Germans are understood to have been large buyers during the week, and our own capitalists have not been slow in availing themselves of the opportunity to purchase stocks, some of which are now at figures which have not been touched before for several years,

THE LEADING EVENTS of the past week have been so many favorable steps towards the re-establishment of confidence. The President of the Lake Shore Company effected a settlement with the Union Trust Company, and the latter report themselves in a fair way to re-sume business during the next sixty days. The banks have made good headway in meeting all legitimate demands for currency, and report heavy gains both in legal tenders and national bank notes. Suspended firms announce their determination and ability to resume business at an early day. General trade is also improving, albeit for the time being there is a partial cessation of manufactures and an indisposition to make new con-tracts. All the signs and symptoms, indeed, point to a sounder condition of affairs and to BETTER PROSPECTS; and if the community, instead of giving heed to he chronic grumblers who are forever looking at the dark side of the picture, and, frequently with matice aforethought, misleading the public to the and that they may depress values and reap a personal advantage—if the people would turn their back on this class and their face to a future that is written all over with gratifying promises, we that we have been scared only by a skeleton. The country is full of money; crops are abundant; grain and cotton are wanted by Europe and Europe is already sending her millions in gold for the purchase. The government has likewise taken a step in the matter of sliver payments which may develop in much greater advantage than we can just now conceive. Every dollar coined and kept in the country lends additional strength to the situa-

THE MONEY MARKET of the city has been quiet, with call loans ranging from 7 per cent per annum to 1-16 per diem. The demand from brokers has been limited, in consequence of the general duiness on the Stock Exchange. In the discount market business paper has passed at 12 to 24 per cent. The internal revenue receipts for the month were $5,550,495.
RAILROAD BONDS.

The prices of this class of securities during the week have been irregular, some of the old bonds selling much below their former figures and others nearly as high as before. The market has been affected from time to time by damaging rumors and natural activity and buoyancy thus interfered with; but on the whole good bonds are a fair test of the steadiness of values and the demand of investors. We quote the latest bids as follows:-

GOVIERNMENT BONDS were stronger during the week and closed firm. The average advance was greater than during the preceding week, showing not only that there is a small supply of bondson the market, but that the pressure to sell them in order to get currency has passed away. In fact, those who sold during the early days of the panic are again in the market trying to repurchase. The following will show the bidding prices at the close of the market:—United States sixes, 1881, registered, 112 a 112%; do. do., conpon, 113; do. five-twenties, 1862, coupon, 107%; do. do., 1864, do., 108 a 108%; do. do., 1865, do., new, 111% a 111%; do. do., coupon, 1867, 113% a 113%; do. do. do., 1868, 115; do. ten-forties, registered, 106; do. do., coupen, 107; do. fives, 1881, coupen, 109% a 110; six per cent bonds, Pacific Railroad, 109% a

There have been few transactions in State bonds, and the whole list is dull except Virginia consols, which have been firmer on a demand from Baltimore and Richmond; this is sup, osed to arise from the prospective results of the coming election. Some of the Louisiana bonds on which the payment Some of the Louisiana bonds on which the payment of interest was heretofore prohibited having been released from the prohibition, an effort will be made to have them placed on an equal facting at the Stock Exchange.

that fails for special comment. The price is still 10%, and there is no immediate probability of it advance. The demand of merchants is limited to what they require from day to day, and tals sum is small, because there is little present disposition to take goods out of bond or buy exchange for remit-tances. The total shipments from England to America have thus far amounted to about $13,000,000. The fluctuations from day to day in the market were as follows:-

THE STOCK MARKET.

From causes above enumerated—to wit, the circulation of all sorts of curious rumors and publications containing a grain of wheat and a bushel of chaff-it was a natural result that the fluctuations of the stock market during the week should be of the stock market during the week should be wide on even a small basiness. The principal dealings were in Western Union, Lake Shore, New York Central, Rock Island, Wabash and Pacific Mall. Western Union sold at 57 a 50% a 54% a 57 a 51%; Lake Shore at 68 a 69% a 61 a 55% a 60%; New York Central at 80 a 86% a 85%; Rock Island at 92 a 93 a 87%; Harlem at 109% a 105% a 107% a 105; Delaware, Lackawanna and Western at 90% a 85% New Jersey Central at 91 a 87; Pittsburg at 85; New Jersey Central at 91 a 87; Pittsburg at 79% a 75 a 77; Fort Wayne at 86% a 81% a 83; Panama at 93 a 87 a 96 a 85; Wabash at 45 a 39 a 41 a 37%; Northwest common at 41 a 35% a 36% a 33; Northwest preferred at 66 a 61%; Eric at 44% a 33; Northwest preferred at 60 a 61%; Eric at 43% a 47 a 45%; St. Paul at 31% a 27% a 39 a 25; preferred at 56 a 52; Ohio and Mississippi at 27% a 22 a 33% a 22%; Union Pacific at 20 a 18% a 17% a 16%; Pacific Mail at 34% a 30% a 32% a 30%; Hannibal and St. Joseph at 22 a 23% a 10%; preferred at 23% a 25, and C., C. and L. C. at 23 a 19%; a 20 a 18%. We have already intimated that the present is an admirable opportunity for men with money to buy securities and take them out of the street, and it will not present itself very long. The market is elastic, and when the banks again are strong enough to extend accommodations to bro-kers and money grows easy stocks will undoubtedly rule higher. Just now it is easier to sell stocks than to buy them, and the bear will not go far out of his way to contradict the absurd and im probable stories which are manufactured in his interest and for the moment prove successful. But the man with a cool head, a reasonably full purse and a fair share of patience will not have many months to wait before the tide turns, and even "iancy" securities will participate in the general improvement throughout the country which is just as certain to show itself as the sunshine. Seven hundred millions of currency, three million bales of cotton and all the grand products of our soil, from corn to petroleum, are not destined to stay locked up for many weeks, and when the current moves it will leave in whatever channel it may course the sediment of fresh wealth which the people will gather and add to the already magnificent store of the nation. Let the croakers croak. The law of development is irresistible. The following table shows the extreme fluctuations for the week in

SATURDAY, Oct. 25-6 P. M.
The trade movement was very moderate during the whole of last week, the fluctuations in the gold promium, the uncertainties of the future and the great scarcity of currency all combining to check a healthy business in merchandise. The last mentioned cause was the universally recognized chief impediment to the prosecution of business enterprises, and is being severely felt throughout the country, but more especially in the chief commercial marts and in the manufacturing districts, where a plentiful supply of the circulating medium is of the first importance. Manufacturing is being curtailed, just as business generally is retarded, and the causes are indentical. During the past week the markets were, as a general thing, dull and irregular, prices fluctuating altogether too frequently and too radically to admit of large transactions. The movement in breadstuffs was fair, though the transactions were nothing like what the export movement would seem to indicate, most of the wheat now going ferward being delivered on contract. The markets on 'Change were quite generally depressed all through the Sorward being delivered on contract. The markets on the change were quite generally depressed all through the week and closed dull. On Saturday four was dull and in buyers' favor. Wheat was also dull with a declining tendency, and the moderate business was done on a lower basis. Corn was rather steadler at the close and prices improved somewhat from the lowest point. Oats and barley were strong. Whiskey was canier with every successive day, and closed with a still declining tendency. Freights were stronger as the continue of the properties. Pork remained nominal; while lard was steady. Naval stores were strong, especially spirits of turpentine. Performance of the continue of the properties. Performed was steady. YORKVILLE POLICE COURT.

Attempted Murder-Young Horse Thieves.

On Saturday evening John McGrory, of No. 210
 West Flity-sixth street, and a blacksmith named John Curtain, residing at No. 32 West Flity-sixth

John Curtain, residing at No. 32 West Firty-sixth street, became involved in a quarrel, which had its origin in the whiskey of a neighboring saloon. After fighting around for some time Curtain, who was getting the worst of the afray, drew some sharp instrument, and with it struck McGrory in the neck, causing the blood to flow in a stream. Curtain was arraigned at the above Court yesterday, before Justice Coulter, who committed him to await the resuit of McGrory's wound.

Two small boys, probably about twelve years of age each, were accused of stealing a horse, the property of John McNearney, of Eighty-mint street and Fourth avenue. After making an affidavit charging the boys with larceny McNearney subsequently made another affidavit withdrawing the charge, because he had come to believe that the boys, though taking the horse, did not mean to steal him. Justice Coulter refused to accept the second affidavit and the prisoners were held for trial.

THE STEAMSHIP ATLAS.

Caught in a Severe Gale When Bound from New York for Jamaica.

Great Danger During Twenty-four Hours-Port Royal Reached After Difficulty-The Most Prominent of the Passengers-The Virginius Expedition.

KINGSTON, Jam., Oct. 13, 1873. The Atlas Company's steamer Atlas left New York on the 4th inst. with sixty-nine passengerssome said Alibusteros—for this port, the weather being fair and all promising well. When three days out, and on this side of Hatteras, she experi-enced a severe hurricane, which lasted for twentyour hours, during six of which the wind was at its height, and the ship was tossed about like a cockle the south, with lowering clouds, followed by a heavy downpour of rain. This continued during the night, and on the morning of the 7th the wind shifted from southerly to southwesterly, increasing in force, and finally shifting all round the compass back to the southeast and southwest, with a heavy swell setting in from the southeast.

At noon the barometer fell rapidly. The wind blew with great violence, and at four P. M. the barometer stood at 28.40 and the symplesometer at

At five in the afternoon the wind lulled suddenly, leaving a heavy cross sea, showing plainly that the ship was in the vortex of the cyclone. But she behaved well. Suddenly the wind shitted again to the northwest, blowing a terrible hurricane, which meeting the heavy southerly swell filled the air with flying spray, so that it was impossible to see half a ship's length from the vessel. The heavy cross seas compelled her to lay to, but not before a heavy sea had boarded her over the bows, carrying away all the goods and material there was on deck.

The vessel was kept to the southeast, and finally

The vessel was kept to the southeast, and finally got out of danger.

GREAT ALARM ON BOARD.

The passengers numbered in all sixty-nine, and they were in the utmost consternation during the terrible two days we have described. From all they had read in the New York papers of the unseaworthiness of the Atlas they felt that she was least calculated to withstand a danger such as that with which she was menaced, and they expected every moment to be launched into eternity. Even the captain, at one moment, finding the ship quite beyond control began to give way to the worst fears, which he found it hard to conceal, and the passengers were driven to utter despair.

AT PORT ROYAL.

The danger of the first two days being over, all went weil till, on arriving at Port Royal, yesterday afternoon, her machinery broke down and the vessel had to lay to. This was observed from Kingston, and, failing to account for the circumstance, a report gained currency that there was choiera on board.

The Atlas is so disabled that it is uncertain when she will be ready for the return voyage to New York. I therefore take advantage of the unexpected opportunity afforded by the sailing of the John J. Meiggs, which arrived here this morning, to send on this despatch.

Sketches of Prominent Passengers-The Virginius Expedition.

The following sketch of the Cuban passengers on board the Atlas, who went out to join the Virginius expedition, will be read with interest at the present moment. About 100 men went out by the Atlas on this and her last trip. The most prominent were:-Juan Aguerro, formerly a wealthy planter, aged sixty-five, who took part in the 1851 Cuba revo lution. The present revolution, which commenced on October 10, 1868, was impelled by Aguerro and Luis Figuerero (now the well known general of that name), taking the command of 200 men and telling Cespedes that if he would not give orders to strike the first blow at the hated Spaniards they would. The rising at Yara was the result of this

COLONEL JOSE JESUS DEL SOL is about tunty-serven years of age, and has the courage of a lion. He has harassed the Spaniards nearer Havana than any other leader. He is a native of Cienfuegos, and has fought for four years in the revolution, and has frequently had hand-to-hand encounters with the Spaniards. He was considered by the Cubans, while living in their mountain fastnesses, to be a perfect Seneca. He leaves behind him here three sons and two daughters, who are being looked after by the Cuban Epi minister, Rev. Mr. Palma, of Twenty-second street: Mme. Munoz, Leandro and Andrew Rodriguez and other friends of free Cuba. When the war commenced he burned his plantation, worth about $50,000. He is bitterly hated and feared by the Spaniards.

menced he burned his plantation, worth about $50,000. He is bitterly hated and feared by the Spaniards.

CENERAL BERNABE VARONA.

This Cuban patriot is an intimate friend of General Quesada, is twenty-eight years of age and a native of Puerto Principe, was educated in the United States; leaves a mother and sister here; has command in Camaguay and in other districts, and is considered a fearless and bold officer.

LIEFFENANT COLONEL ENERGUE CASTELLANO, a native of Guinez, in Cuba, went out in the Perit with General Jourdan, has lought under General Figuerero in Bayamo, Holguin, Porto Principe, Remedios, Santo Espiritu, Trinidad, and took a very prominent part in the battle of Las Tuñas. He has also lought under the command of Jesus del Sol in the Colon district.

Two other natives of Guinez are Ricardo and Induleia Trujiilo, who recently kept a restaurant in Pine street, New York. They have made together several unsuccessful attempts to land in Cuba, having been out in the steamers Lilian, Hornet, Galvanic, Fanny, and in three sailing ships.

Captain Gratz Brown, an American, of Philadelphia, who, at the desire of the Cuban Junta and particularly the late Mr. Mayorga, hoaxed the Spanish Consul and General Craig and Sydney Webster by pretending to be a spy on the movements of the Cuban patriots. He boasts of having been sent to Philadelphia in "secret service for the Spanish government" and making several hundred dollars. He was associated in this business with a man called Francis Norton, to whom the Cubans gave the command of the Cuban varied states authorities at Newport. Brown has done good service in Cuba and is considered a fellow who knows a thing or two.

General Ryan's history in connection with the Cuban struggle is so weil known that it needs but little comment, save that to say he is credited, as a last exploit, with having originated a bogus despatch at Washington a couple of months ago, calling all Cuban officers now in the United States, back to the "General of lixt years, an American citizen now, Perenced other and has done good service against the Spaniards.

SANTA ROSA.

This veteran of sixty years, an American citizen now, recently working at No. 100 Maiden lane, has been perpetually engaged in revolutions against the Spaniards in Cuba. He helped to capture the Havana mail steamer Comanditario. He only left the prison at Havana about three months ago. Half his life has been spent in Cuban prisons, and he regularly claims Uncle sam's protection and intervention. His son here, a cigar maker, has saved his life twice through interference at Washington. Before he goes into a fight he prays for the repose of the sonis of the Spaniards that he may kill.

The following correspondence speaks for itself:—

B. SAFTA ROSA, New YOYK:—

Size—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th and 28th inst. from Havana; leads to the hope that your father's safety is assured, and that his release will speedily be attained.

Admiral Regada's letter, transmitted with yours of the 19th inst. is returned herewith as requested. I am, sir, your obedient servant,

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7, 1873.

B. SANYA ROSA, 96 Maiden hane:—

Consul at Havana, telegraphs that your father sailed for New York yesterday. I congratulate you on this long deferred act of justice.

HAMILTON FISH.

Secretary of State.

Colonel Bortel, a native of Remedios, Cuba, is an experienced officer, and has done good service against the Spaniards.

Mr. Hernandez, of Matanzas, a wealthy planter's son, also joins the expedition.

A great many of the patriots are cigar makers, who paid their own passage money.

A couple of young Americans and Cubans who had no intention of going to Cuba by the Atlas, borrowed their passage money and joined the liberators, so entirely were they overcome by the enthusiasm of the moment, when they saw the vessel about to take its departure.

The Commander of the Next Virginius Expedition-Brigadier General Rafael

Quesada.

This distinguished Cuban commander, now in Jamaica, was born in Puerto Principe and is thirtythree years of age. Brigadier Quesada has served with distinction in the armics of the Republic of dent Juarez was obliged to see from the capital of Mexico successively to San Luis Potosi, Saitillo, Monterey and Chinuahua, Rafael Quesada was honored with the command of the President's body guard. He served altogether nine years in Mexico.

At the breaking out of the Cuban revolution the brothers Quesada—the subject of this sketch and his brother Manuel—leit Mexico and at once placed their swords at the service of their native brothers Quesada—the subject of this sketch and his brother Manuel—leit Mexico and at once placed their swords at the service of their native Cuba.

Rafael Quesada has successfully disembarked no less than three expeditions on the coasts of Cuba, with men, arms and ammunition for the patriots—two in the steamer Virginius; one of these known as the Venezuela expedition. The first was from Nassau, N. P., by the Salvador. It landed near Guaimaro on the 14th of May, 1869. The second salled from Fuerto Cabello and landed near Santiago de Cuba on the 20th of July, 1871. This expedition was boidly disembarked in presence of a Spanish man-of-war, which innocently lay but a few hundred yards from the Cuban cruiser. After disembarking the men and material of war Quesada had to march nearly 300 miles through the almost unproken forests of Cuba, the narrow roads and passes of which were occupied by 5,000 Spanish troops in columns of different strength. He successfully accomplished this trying march and delivered to President Cespedes in Gamaguay every cartridge and gun that he had landed. The third Quesada expedition is fresh in everybody's mind. It left Aspinwall on the 1st day of last July and landed on the Southern coast of Cuba on the 'th. It was one of the most important and without exception the best directed expedition may be equally fortunate with Raisel Quesada at its head.

THE WEEHAWKEN WIFE MURDER.

The Herald's Influence on Curious Jurors. Yesterday morning Peter Ridgeway, the mur-derer of his spouse, Anastasia, was removed from the station house at Weekawken to the County Jail. During the coming week the case will be brought before the Grand Jury, and the Court Rouse will thereafter be the scene of one more murder trial. He has one brother, a respected individual, living in Jersey, and another brother, "Dick," who was convicted of theft some time ago. He equently escaped from Snake Hill and the Justice of the Peace declined to issue a warrant for his recapture. The present prisoner seems to possess influence among the pothouse politicians in the neighborhood. The efforts of his friends, however, were baffled by the expose made in the HERALD of Saturday. Prior to the Coroner's the Herald of Saturday. Prior to the Coroner's charge on Saturday night one of the jurors, named John Frost, who evidently had not been satisfied with the Herald's unvarnished account of the doings of county politicians, asked Coroner Parsloe to read it. Frost then invited the Herald representative to swear to the article, but the latter intimated to the politician that the Herald accounts needed no confirmation. Frost grew feverish, and asked the Coroner to eject the representative, which modest request was not granted. Frost then began to make a demonstration, and muttered something about pitching him out, when the Coroner enjorced a point of order and the now nonplussed juror subsided.
